

"A woman has got to love a bad man once or twice in her life to be thankful for a good one." – Mae West

Isabelle Lewis has a habit of falling in and out of marriage. It's a problem, and she doesn't know how to fix it. Single mom to three teenagers and top salesperson at the Chatbrook Springs Sentinel daily newspaper, she is determined to make a change. Unfortunately, one of the changes plunges her into her worst nightmare.

When Izzy discovers online dating, she is immediately hooked. Her nightly adventures catapult her to celebrity status at the Sentinel. One night she reads an especially intriguing message, and disappears into the darkness to meet the mystery man in a flurry of romantic expectations. The online hunt takes a decidedly dark turn. And she's the prey.

Snarky, suspense-filled, transparent. "The Hunting" is inspiring women's fiction at its gritty best.

Addictive! From the time you meet The Hunting's protagonist, Isabelle "Izzy" Lewis, until the book's end, you are pulled into her challenges – from her online dating addiction to dealing with her creepy new boss, all while raising three kids as a single mom. You will find yourself pulling for Izzy and loving her!"
